veals society's real living nightmares. Also fourth anthology of dark satirical dystopia he reveals what keeps him awake at interviewed by Steve Schofield

In the time between meeting and sitting down to read Charlie Brooke was the word "weird" about ten times greater half dozen of us and "fuddy" a few times too. Then up for the photograph we "weird". The camera set up to show us "weird". The chair on which we sit we "weird".
"I'd never made eye contact with anyone for this long as nothing has close together our chairs are. "I've seen where someone who if we were beautiful, he'd be in a day - he only can be a man and then."

The days leading up to our interview have been for me too. To the home of my daughter, who lives Black Mirror, the show had proved me by I still know I a familiar volume, a fellow contributor to the all of "Dark Zone, the presence of an annual re-year and the husband of "Boris" they. He is I had duty bound to watch so many Black Mirror
one. From the film, "The National Anthem" as a interview is forced to have sex with a pig to be so he released on Netflix "The Call of Cthulhu" game in which Jesse Plemons plays the patient
a terrifying and where, as always with it nothing is quite as it seems. It is weird, it is

UKWELI ROACH

See him in ITV drama Criminal Law this month, and Shut comedy Shut in April

"You know you're in love when you become selfish, and always put me first. I once went to meet a girlfriend at Heathrow when she'd returned from holiday. I was about 25, I didn't have a car, it was late and a long way. Normally, I'd just be like, 'Get a cab, see you when you're back?' Dating deal-breaker? Absolutely. I once dated a girl who was pretty much perfect in every way, except after half a glass of wine she'd turn into a raving monster."

ANEURIN BARNARD

This month's Amazon plays a young David Bailey opposite Naomi Gribble's Blue Manon in ITV's The Man on the Moon, a BBC's Super of the People's Love at the New York

"I read carefully when it comes to relationships. I used to want to be single, a bit of a heartbreaker. I guess I thought that was cool, but it hurt me. My relationship never worked. I think I loved my girlfriend when I started considering her feelings, but now I don't. That's the transition. And it should be a happy transition - if you have to force someone it's probably wrong. My girlfriend thought it weird to see the London ITV Man. On Super this man from the moon, it was the most perfect gift I ever received. I got it."

MICHAEL SOCHA AND DAMIEN MOLONY

Damien (right) joins the cast of Being Human as toxic vampire Hal, alongside Michael's boyfriend Tony. The new series starts early this year on BBC3.

MICHAEL: "I hate anything change. Petals on the bed... it's like, and I think romance, looking whatever makes that person happy, rather than what you think should make them happy. My way to a woman's heart would be cooking for her. I just know when a girl has broken and is comfortable enough around me to take the piss. When she doesn't care what anyone thinks, that's the sexiest a girl can be."

DAMIEN: "My relationship has lasted four-and-a-half years. I know I loved her when suddenly I just couldn't imagine being without her. Having said that, it took me a couple of years before I felt comfortable enough to speak on the phone regularly. The phone terrifies me. At least with a bed you can take your time and think of something cool to say. I think the first time I called her was because I'd gone to the wrong place for our date and had to phone. It was awful."

G MEN

REECE RITCHIE

Reece stars in White Heat, which follows seven friends from the '90s to the present day. Catch it on BBC2 from March.

"I love forests. Even if I don't agree with a woman's choice, if she's honest, it's the most attractive thing. I'm wary of overly confident people. It can be false. The most romantic thing I've done is took down a girl's bouquet flowers and sent them to her... in Madrid. The most romantic thing a girlfriend did for me was, for my birthday, buy me an original edition of a film magazine from the month and the year I was born. To go to such lengths was amazing and meant the world to me." ●
