HONORING THEIR ROOTS

One of the topics that Anna and Sonya consistently return to throughout the interview is their home country of Ukraine. Sonya believes that one of the most influential for the duo's sound is the conflict in Ukraine.

"I definitely affected what we could have written without choice to write about what we chose to sing about and when we chose to sing." Sonya says. "It not only affected us but even Sonya, I still affected anything that we want to touch."

Sonya and Anna have been advocating and speaking up for Ukraine through their art since 2014 with the single "Get Up Stand Up Ukraine!" which is cover of the Bob Marley song. The cover was released at the start of the Ukrainian conflict with Russia. After Putin released a music video to go along with the cover that contained actual footage of what's going on in Ukraine. The twins were given the opportunity to perform their song on BBC Newsnight to help raise awareness.

When the war broke out in 2022, the twins and Sonya decided to call out artists who were Ukraine to the general public but were not speaking out about the conflict. Through Daily Mail, Vogue Twins called out major artists like Adele, Beyoncé and Coldplay for supporting Ukraine and only being about the country when it benefited them.

The twins also led them to be recruited as engineers for night for Ukraine, a benefit concert in September 2022. The concert was performed at the Madison Square Garden in New York City and the proceeds from the event were donated to provide aid to people fleeing Ukraine and the Russian invasion.

The twins continue to use their talents and voices to speak up and raise awareness about what's going on around. They also want to inspire people in Ukraine to have hope and to continue to pursue their passions and talents despite the efforts of their oppressors.

Thank to their fan following, they have been able to raise your talent and other countries if you can't find it in the music world, you can find it.
