on the FIELD

With March approaching we can (almost) declare the winter over while welcoming the new spring. Days get longer, air gets warmer, leaves cover themselves with tender hues and the first flowers gently pop up. This type of climate really makes us to get out and enjoy the open air and even if many of us are going through another lockdown, it is a good idea to make the most of every occasion to have a walk in Nature. To completely profit of the situation was something harmonising with nature itself. Brown and beige colour palette, cream white and a touch of orange and yellow, which lights up the spirit. They wanted us that nothing is made of several elements together: outfits are not to be understated, because they change the perception we have of ourselves.
